Personal Statement

Best qualities

Attention to detail. My interactions with both clients in my professional practice and the individuals I volunteer to assist have taught me the critical significance of paying meticulous attention to the intricacies of their bodies. This awareness allows me to discern areas of heightened stress or specific needs, which I then address through tailored massage techniques. By coupling this massage approach, I am dedicated to delivering an entirely personalized experience for each individual.

Punctuality is essential and serves as a sign of respect and consideration. The relationship between a massage therapist and a client is one of vulnerability and trust. I firmly believe that arriving on time not only creates a positive first impression but also establishes reliability as the foundational element for the entire session.

Current Life Goals

To become a highly experienced Complementary Therapist. I've studied 6 massage courses to date and I am soon to begin an online course with the School of Natural Skincare, aligning with my aspiration to eventually launch my own skincare line.

I wish to continue to help vulnerable people which is why I volunteer at Cancer Research Centre as a Massage Therapist. One memorable experience involved a client with significant stiffness akin to cerebral palsy. Following the massage session, observing the fluidity in their movement was truly heartening. It is these moments of tangible positive impact that further reinforce my dedication to my life goals.
