Personal Statement

Excellent customer service skills, a pleasant can-do personality, and the ability to be a good listener.

As a beauty therapist, I have often become a confidante for clients, someone outside their friendship circle with whom they share personal details of their lives. This important aspect of the sessions and my high-quality technical skills keep clients returning regularly. In my last job, my confidentiality and empathy meant I built great relationships with clients, who may continue to seek appointments with me if I worked in your organisation
