Employment History:

December 2013 - April 2014 - Retail Professional at (most recent employer hidden for confidentiality) Central London , UK - United Kingdom, (High Street Store)

Duties included:

Debenhams Chanel Counter

I worked as a Christmas Temp in CHANEL during Christmas time this was one of the most challenging job that I come across because I had to deal with several customers at the same time I dealt with situations like returns and refunds, skin consultations, explaining to customers what new products we have and why they would benefit them and product wrapping.

Peter Jones (John Lewis): Ren Consultant

I worked in Ren which is a skincare range. My job role was advertising and selling Ren products like purifying facial skin scrub's to night treatments also I would have to do skin consultations to advise the right product for the right skin type. I had personal Ren training for this job role.

House Of Fraser: Chanel Counter

My job role was to sell Chanel products as Chanel has Skin Care, Make up and Fragrance Range. I also did make up sessions with clients to help them find their right skin tone colour, blusher mascaras and lip sticks Also I did skin analysis for our skin care range to help sell products I also manage the shop counter alone and dealt with refunds and exchange.

John Lewis: GHD Hair Department

I worked here for several days it was an exciting opportunity to work with GHD as they are the top leading company for Hair Products and Hair Electronic Range across UK and Internationally I got personal training in how to sell the products but I already had an idea as I use GHD myself. My job role was to sell products approach consumers and ask them if they wanted a free hair trial I straighten, curled also styled hair.
